FEARFUL CONDITIONS AT PORT ARTHUR

Both Combatants Are Merciless, Flags of Truce Not Respected and It Is War to the Death---Prince Radzivil's Story.

Che-foo, Sept. 18—5:45 p. m.—According to Lieut. Prince Radzivil, of the Russian army, who reached here today from Port Arthur [illegible] from Lieut. General Stoessel, the commander-in-chief of the forces of the Russian stronghold, to General Kuroki, the condition of the inhabitants of Port Arthur has reached an almost hopeless state.

Prince Radzivil served with the Russian in the Boer war and he says that until he became aware of the state of affairs at Port Arthur he had been under the impression that war could be at its worst.

Red Cross Flag.

To what we have learned in these dispatches some weeks ago that serious suspicions were entertained by both belligerents that the other was misusing the Red Cross flag. These suspicions have been increased by the commission of various acts by the soldiers of both armies which do not seem fair if truce or surrender are not respected by either side. Probably both armies are absolutely ignorant of their antagonism.

Lieut. General Stoessel [illegible] the necessity of restoring them to the last drop of Russian blood because, if the Japanese succeeded in [illegible] it would be impossible [illegible] and prefers a massacre.

For the reason Lieut. General Stoessel is making an effort to evacuate Port Arthur. While the [illegible] women is no use in Port Arthur engaged in hospital work, [illegible] the possibility of massacre than death their [illegible].

Flags Lowered.

In consequence of the frequent flags of truce are lowered numbers of Japanese [illegible] the flags of the garrison defended for white part are still authorized and the sketch in Port Arthur from the engineering bodies when the wind is in the right direction is almost [illegible].

The Russian soldiers who are in some cases posted only 50 paces from those of [illegible] have [illegible] crawled in camphor, as otherwise they would be unable to remain at their posts.

In the course of the assaults which took place in the four last days of August two companies of Japanese soldiers, according to Prince Radzivil, found themselves at the mercy of the Russians and hoisted a white flag. To this, [illegible] of the Russians paid no attention and bayoneted to death every man in the [illegible] ranks of the enemy.

Sept. First, Ten.

In the meantime Japanese troops in the rear of the [illegible] had raised the white flag [illegible] their comrades had done and expressed their [illegible] successfully till his sword broke. He then used his fists upon the Japanese, but their bayonets quickly put an end to his resistance.

Before his sword broke Petroff succeeded in incapacitating eight of his antagonists, but he was wounded all over the body. One company of Russian troops were counting a perilous outpost and when they found their positions to be untenable they sent the following message to Lieut. General Stoessel:

"We are unable to hold our position. Put fire on us, that commander said to order. And so they did.

"The fact that the Japanese have taken several occupied and fortified heights has been confirmed by Lieut. General Stoessel. He gives an instance which occurred at Takushan when two companies of the 5th regiment were killed by such bullets, their bodies being blown to pieces.

"On September 11 the troops of Lieut. General Stoessel and Fort No. 2 and Fort No. 3. The garrison from the decomposed bodies attracted attention. The Russian authorities admit that they are not able to [illegible] what engagement resulted in this slaughter.

Dogs Killed!

Prince Radzivil gives another version from [illegible] concerning the two companies of Russian troops that surrendered. According to the [illegible] Japanese battery fired on the two companies when the white flag was raised.

[illegible] this same version General [illegible] who happened to be present, was killed in the charge of his own men, as were several of the Japanese gunners.

Persistent Chinese rumors have been received here lately to the effect that a successor to General Nogi has arrived at Fort Dalny, but this is denied by Port Japanese.

TO RESPECT TOMBS

Both Armies Have Agreed Not to Violate Sanctity of the Dead in Vicinity of Mukden.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 18.—General Sakharoff has reported to the minister of war, under date of September 17:

"The Manchurian army was nowhere engaged on September 16 or 17. The arrival of considerable reinforcements is noticeable at the advance posts along the whole of the enemy's front and especially near the villages of Bashipuzai and east of the railway toward the Yen-tai mines.

"It is announced from Mukden that both the Russians and the Japanese have promised to respect the tombs and palace there.

FAMILY FIGHTING IS NOW FREQUENT

Moscow, Sept. 18.—The circles having received from the effects of the recent fighting before Liao-yang, an early [illegible] of the combatant [illegible] expected. A mysterious movement [illegible] ward is on foot on the part of bands of Chinese suitable for military service. All the leading young Chinese who have aided the Russians are leaving Mukden.

SPOILS OF LIAO-YANG

Marquis Oyama Reports Capture of Great Quantities of Ammunition But Very Few Prisoners.

Tokio, Sept. 18.—Marquis Oyama, commander of the Japanese forces in the field, telegraphed this morning that General Oku has reported having captured 18 prisoners at the battle of the Liao-yang. He also gave a detailed list of the Russian guns which General Oku captured as follows: Thirty horses, 2,700 rifles, 127 ammunition wagons, [illegible] rounds of artillery, [illegible] small arm cartridges, great quantities of timber, flour, etc.

Marquis Oyama also reports that the armies under Generals Kuroki and Nodzu made no prisoners in the fighting before Liao-yang. General Kuroki captured 40 horses, 700 rifles, [illegible] rounds of artillery and [illegible] rounds of rifle ammunition, three heliographs, tarpaulins, tools and large quantities of food stuffs and timber.

General Oku organized [illegible] to construct railroad depots.

RUSSIANS DENY THAT GUNS WERE CAPTURED.

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 18.—The Russian embassy here has received the following from the general staff at St. Petersburg:

"The official report of Marshal Oyama regarding the occupation of Liao-yang after a severe fight is not exact as Oyama claims not same any quantity of prisoners or guns captured by his troops and without this his dispatch would appear too meagre for the Japanese public, which was awaiting news of immense spoil having been captured as some for the tremendous losses sustained at the battle by the Japanese army. The Japanese commander-in-chief invents the following facts. Two old railway cars and several broken up commissary wagons are referred to by Oyama as an immense supply of provisions and railway material; several empty ammunition boxes are designated as a great quantity of ammunition left by the Russians in the entrenchments."

NOT PUSHING NORTH

Russians Say Kuroki Is Resting at Yen-Tai---Vladivostok Does Not Fear Siege.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 17—1 a. m.—The reports that General Kuroki is pushing northward of Mukden are not borne out by official telegrams that have been received [illegible] indicate the Japanese army [illegible] to increase at Washington and Tokio. A [illegible] advance in the direction of Mukden is therefore not [illegible] for some days [illegible] entirely ignorant of the probability of the Japanese meeting with resistance. The Russian losses at Mukden [illegible] are very large and every day's [illegible] perfect [illegible] reports the [illegible] of an [illegible] train filled with [illegible] returning to duty. This may be [illegible] of a large [illegible] which were expected to act as a diversion for General Kuroki's advance are not yet in sight.

The [illegible] at Port Arthur [illegible] Do Not [illegible]

The repair ship Kamchatka has left Cronstadt to join the fleet of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky at Libau.

The disarming of the Lena at San Francisco is accepted here as having been inevitable, in view of the considerable length of time required to repair the vessel's boilers.

Neutral Ports.

The Novoe editorially points out that the United States declaration of neutrality expressly provides for vessels of a belligerent power using American ports for needful repairs, but admits that Russia cannot reasonably expect to be allowed to keep a warship indefinitely in a neutral port without disarming.

The [illegible] in this connection recalls the fact that a Russian fleet put in and was repaired at Marseilles [illegible] before the Turkish war, and [illegible] The [illegible] that the [illegible] have [illegible] and in the case of the Lena.

The [illegible] of the [illegible] of the Lena's crew is no nearer a solution, as for as the authority and the foreign [illegible] are [illegible] then it was before. [illegible]

WILSON IS NOW VIOLENT

Insane Man Developed Ministerial Turn Yesterday.

PREACHED END OF WORLD

HIS BROTHER ARRIVES LAST NIGHT BUT COULD DO NOTHING WITH HIM—HE IS IN SAD STATE.

C. R. Wilson, who was arrested and placed in the county jail on a charge of injury early yesterday morning, is stated in the Gazette-Herald to have [illegible] during the day and is now practically a raving maniac.

It was about 10 o'clock yesterday morning that his violent [illegible] took place. [illegible] the cigar before [illegible] the shock of being thrown into jail had sobered him [illegible] The police thought he was all right but told him Dr. Richardson would have to see him before he could get out. Wilson told Mr. Nelson that he believed he was under hypnotic influence.

Before the doctor arrived Wilson had become violent and was making his way [illegible] ing with his coat, he began to preach, reading first from the Book of the Revelations where the judgment is spoken of. He declared that the end of the world is at hand; that we now have [illegible] the world is ending. He quoted well known church songs using words of his own for [illegible]

[illegible] the white man. In doing this, he first took out his handkerchief and shook it very mysteriously and then rubbed it very impressively across the negro's face, [illegible] he said: "Now you're white. Your blackness has all gone."

The man declared that he was divinely ordered to stop in Colorado Springs and continue his work of calling the world to an account in this city.

Wilson's brother [illegible] was notified yesterday. He came up last evening and spent some time with his brother. He [illegible] the insane man very [illegible] all the time. The brother is [illegible] R. Wilson. He had no advice [illegible] course to take. If Wilson's violence continues, he will probably be taken before the county court this morning on a charge of insanity.

AIRSHIPS ARE UNABLE TO FLY

CONTESTANTS FOR GRAND PRIZE AT ST. LOUIS CANNOT QUALIFY.—TIME LIMIT MAY BE EXTENDED BY FAIR BOARD.

St. Louis, Sept. 18.—The grand [illegible] for airship flights in the grand prize contests at the World's Fair [illegible] the question of extending the time and otherwise modifying the rules governing the contest, is being considered by the aeronautic committee.

The time limit set was September 20. As this is only 11 days away and none of the contestants as yet has made a successful flight and no definite dates have been set for future trial flights the question of extending the time for the contests rather than have them go by default is receiving the serious consideration of the exposition authorities.

At present there are only three aeronauts in the city who have entered in the match for the grand prize. They are T. C. Benbow of Montreal, Captain Baldwin of San Francisco and Francis Conteau, a French aeronaut who arrived in St. Louis Saturday. Of the three Benbow is the only one who has made a trial flight.

At the time he essayed to fly his ship it was not free of the ground, and he of course, did not qualify. Captain Baldwin is the only one of the three who is known positively to have qualified for an entry in the contest for the grand prize.

BELIEVE THE ASSAULT IS ON

NEWS RECEIVED IN CHEFOO INDICATES THAT THE JAPANESE ARE AGAIN ASSAULTING PORT ARTHUR.

Che-foo, Sept. 18.—Midnight—Local students of the military situation at Port Arthur, basing their deductions upon recent developments there, are of the opinion that another grand assault is either occurring at the present time or is imminent.

This opinion is based on the heavy bombardment of the Russian stronghold that occurred on September 16, for such a bombardment forms the usual prelude to an assault, on the arrival here of important messengers from Port Arthur at a time when the running of the blockade is extremely perilous, on a recent authoritative statement that the Japanese siege works are completed and on reports from Japanese sources that at Port Dalny an assault was expected to take place in a few days. These reports were received late week.

In addition to the foregoing there is the common knowledge that the Japanese realize that their continued inactivity increases the resisting power of the Russian garrison and their consequent desire to make such period of inactivity as brief as possible.

HOLD TILL JANUARY

Kuropatkin's Advices to Stoessel at Port Arthur—Young Boys Impressed for Service.

London, Sept. 19.—The Daily Telegraph's Che-foo correspondent says:

"Two Germans and a Cossack, who have arrived here from Port Arthur assert that General Kuropatkin told Lieut. Gen. Stoessel that he must hold out until January and they say that the garrison has ammunition and food for six months. This probably is greatly exaggerated.

"Other refugees say that no fresh troops are left at Port Arthur and that the garrison there is reduced to 8,000.

"Lieut. Gen. Stoessel has not allowed the publication of the Novikrai since September 8.

"Boys as young as 15 years have been impressed for hospital work. The destruction of the coast defense vessel Gremyashchi by striking a mine is confirmed."

ST. LOUIS SHOW WENT ON STRIKE

INDIANS, COWBOYS, ETC., DECIDED NOT TO CONTINUE THEIR EMPLOYMENT WITH A WILD WEST SHOW.

St. Louis, Sept. 18.—Three hundred and fifty Indians, cowboys and others representing the troops of various nations employed with the Cummings Wild West show on the Pike at the World's fair, struck today and will leave for their homes, it is announced. Everything is quiet at the grounds, no outbreak of any sort resulting.

Last Tuesday the show went into the hands of a receiver who put Captain Viner, formerly in the Boer war, another show on the Pike, in charge in place of Cummings.

Today when the Indians, cowboys and soldiers drew their pay, they were asked to continue at work under the new management. This they declined to do, it is stated. Arrangements are being made tonight by the strikers to leave the show here and return home.

It is proposed before doing so to give a benefiture raise enough money to send the Indians back to their reservations. In the party are 170 Indians, representing 42 tribes. Among the Indians are 11 chiefs. The Indians and men struck, they said, because they did not want to work for anybody but Cummings.

PROBABLY FRAUDULENT

ESTATE ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN LEFT TO A CALIFORNIAN THOUGHT TO BE THE CONCOCTION OF SWINDLERS.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Pending an investigation of the case, state department officials are disposed to treat as a conspiracy scheme to obtain money, the information which the press reports from Pasadena, Cal., state has come to a relative of Mrs. Susan Melachan, of California, of the reported death of Louis Elizabeth in a Spanish hospital and the detention of her 16-year-old daughter in a convent in Madrid.

RIDING OVER SALT LAKE

OGDEN-TUCUM CUT-OFF IS NOW BEING USED FOR PASSENGER TRAFFIC—BIG SAVING FOR SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Salt Lake, Sept. 18.—Without ceremonies of any kind the great Ogden-Lucin cut-off of the Harriman system, running across the northern arm of [illegible] was today opened for passenger traffic.

It has been in use for some time for part of the overland freight traffic, but today it was made an actual part of the overland system and henceforth all trains will be run over the trestles of the cut-off. The expense [illegible] in an absolutely straight line over piling and filling, through the waters of Great Salt lake.

When the new time schedule contemplated for the overland traffic is put into effect an actual lessening of more than two hours in the running time between Chicago and San Francisco will be shown, besides cutting out of the operating expense of some of the most difficult and costly railroading in the country, the trackage over Promontory hill on the north shore of Great Salt lake. The elimination of this part of the system from overland traffic, will, it is estimated, save about $[illegible] a day in operating expenses.

SERIOUS IN ITALY

Children Lay in Front of the Engines at Porto Novo—Reserves Called Out to Suppress Strikers.

Paris, Sept. 18.—The Journal's Genoa correspondent reports that he travelled to Nice in order to send the following uncensored dispatch:

"The situation throughout Italy is most serious. At Rome the council of ministers has called but two classes of reserves in order to reinforce the authorities. Premier Giolitti has postponed a journey to Racconigi, which he had intended to make for the purpose of extending his personal congratulations on the birth of the crown prince. At Porto Novo crowds of people stopped the railway trains, many children lying down before the engines. One person was killed and several were badly hurt in a collision with soldiers at Genoa, where the strikers prevented the departure of trains. Railway tracks were also torn up near Rivarolo. No trains left Milan Sunday night."

The final game also went to the visitors by a score of 6 to 5. The victory was due to a mistake in coaching.

Kostal opened the first game badly, allowing four singles, two of which were scratches, and two bases on balls, which netted five runs. Sioux City nearly evened matters by getting three runs on a single, a dead ball and two wild pitches by McNeeley. With the score 6 to 6 in the sixth Maryan singled, Kostal was passed and E. Lawler was hit by a pitched ball filling the bases with only one out. Carter then rapped out a long single, but Keller, who was coaching on third stopped Maryan half way between there and home with the ball still in the field. He dragged Maryan back to third, but E. Lawler was there with Carter on second. Lawler tried back to second with an error that let home the [illegible] run.

PRINCE BISMARCK DEAD

Could Never Forget From the First That his Father Was [illegible]

Friedrichsruhe, Sept. 18.—Prince Herbert Bismarck died this morning at 10:15 o'clock. The end was painless. Since he ceased to be foreign minister in 1890 Prince Herbert Bismarck had taken part in public affairs only as a member of the reichstag. His attitude [illegible] in his sovereign and who was waiting in break ground for an opening to resume his career.

His delivery as a parliamentary [illegible] was [illegible] always declined to join any political party, [illegible] calling himself an independent. His heredity and imperious manners in his early life when he was [illegible] consequence of the fact that he was the son of the most powerful statesman in Europe softened in later life.

Prince Bismarck's father trained him for his successor as chancellor of the German empire and advanced him rapidly in the diplomatic service until at the age of 40 he was minister of foreign affairs in which position he took part in nearly every important international transaction.

STANCHFIELD IN LEAD

New York Democrats Awaiting Word From Leaders---Tammany Has Several Candidates.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Although there are well-known Democrats here tonight the absence of some of the foremost leaders who will be influential in the selection of the ticket to be nominated at the Democratic state convention, which will begin Tuesday prevents the situation from taking any definite form. David B. Hill, P. H. McCarren, Charles Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, former Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., and W. F. Sheehan, all of whom are recognized as important factors in the solution of the problem before the state Democracy, are not yet upon the ground.

Everybody, regardless of political affiliation, agrees tonight that no definite settlement has been reached as to the nomination for governor. It is conceded that John B. Stanchfield of Elmira has the lead. Assemblyman George M. Parker of Schoharie is mentioned for lieutenant governor.

The Tammany people who are here mention four names as those of candidates, any one of whom would be acceptable to Tammany. These names are those of Stanchfield, Judge Parker, Judge D. Cady Herrick of Albany and Judge W. J. Gaynor of Brooklyn. They express themselves as opposed to the Stanchfield nomination on account of Comptroller Edward M. Grout, who is mentioned as likely to be favored by Senator McCarren and the Kings county delegation and certain upstate leaders.

There is no movement here in evidence in favor of the nomination of District Attorney William Travis Jerome. W. Caryll Ely, president of the International Railway, traffic system of Buffalo and Niagara Falls, was put forward tonight by some of the Niagara county people and it was said he might have the support of the 12 Erie county delegates formally pledged to Charles W. Goodyear, as well as that of the Cattaraugus delegation.

At the same time the name of David N. Lockwood of Buffalo was also mentioned with interest by some of the Goodyear delegates. Offsetting the talk of Mr. Ely is the fact that Erie county is interested in the nomination of Attorney General Cullen for associate judge of the court of appeals.

Esopus, N. Y., Sept. 18.—H. H. Sheehan, chairman of the national executive committee, and Representative Francis Burton Harrison of New York, vice chairman of the bureau of organization of upper New York, were the only political callers at Rosemount today.

Judge Parker has made no changes in his personal plans concerning participation in the campaign. It is announced that he has not arranged to spend any definite number of days each week in New York, as has been reported, but the judge will go to New York only when it will be more convenient to meet his political managers there than it would be for them to come to Rosemount. No time, however, has been set for such trips.

The announcement was also made that the judge will not go on a speaking tour, but that he will make all his speeches from the veranda at Rosemount.

DIFFERENCE IN TACTICS AND GENERALSHIP OF TWO FIGHTING ARMIES

Copyrighted by the Associated Press.

With the First Japanese Army, Tiensichen, Manchuria, Aug. 12.—The lessons of the campaign are at least constantly before the eyes of the military observers with the army. They have made no revolutionary discoveries thus far; indeed, the chief result has been the overshadowing importance of that complete preparation which has made every one of every [illegible] are alive at the appointed minute and the attention to details for each of which the officers of the war department are much given credit for years.

The work of the Russian artillery on the first of July surprised the highest praise from everyone. It was in strong contrast to the showing made at the Yalu and was in every respect a great in that arm of the Russian military. Their gun positions were selected by engineers who appreciated the importance of the country as they had noted it on all the Yalu. The [illegible] of the hills which [illegible] from the valley on both sides of Taiwan [illegible] were [illegible] the Russian infantry, extended nearly in a semi-circle.

[illegible] the Russian [illegible] the brave number of the city beyond it where the seven Japanese batteries must find cover, while they pounded in the enemy's shot shrieking targets, difficult to gauge. Consequently they gave the Japanese artillery a hard way of it and compelled the batteries with the Japanese left division attempting to flank the Russian right to shift their ground repeatedly to avoid the [illegible] and dismantle the guns from the river (Yu) [illegible].

[illegible] of the battery of the Russian [illegible] afterward it was [illegible] the high peak behind Tolmen, the other [illegible] had charged a perfect hailstorm of shrapnel which was [illegible] every [illegible] which [illegible] had been given every [illegible] feet of ground across the [illegible].

Many statements have appeared in Eastern [illegible] about the superiority of Japanese guns, but their work so far has [illegible] the western opinion that [illegible] a good hand well. It is [illegible] corrected by the experts who have seen their work in the field that the Russian guns are better than the Japanese guns. On the other hand the Russian [illegible] the shrapnel and Japanese guns against those of Russian.

Much to Be Explained.

But the showing made by the Russian infantry leaves much to be explained. If good excuses can be held for marksmanship the Russian [illegible] would have been a revelation of the Japanese results. [illegible] without heavy loss, if at all. They seem [illegible] on the [illegible] and [illegible] the valley and up the hillsides had [illegible] the stalks of corn.

Yet the Russian defense was either remarkably weak or only a demonstration, because the Japanese of the central division had to deploy for another [illegible] [illegible] Moreover, there was the [illegible] Japanese. As a measurement [illegible] that number the Japanese left brought well and [illegible] the night [illegible] Russian battalions [illegible] of Tawan to [illegible] the [illegible] Yu. The [illegible] of the [illegible] which [illegible] from the valley on both sides of Taiwan [illegible] were [illegible] extended nearly in a semi-circle.

ASHAMED OF RUSSIANS

Foreign Attaches Disgusted at Retreat of Czar's Troops Close to Liao-Yang.

London, Sept. 19.—The Times' correspondent with General Kuropatkin in a dispatch dated Liao-Yang, September 7, at the conclusion of the long battle thus says:

General Kuroki's flank movement failed owing to the tactics of General Kuropatkin, who trusted that half of his army would suffice to hold the Japanese south of the Taitse river.

His forces were so admirably posted and so possessed such a secure line of retreat that the commander of the fourth approved most appropriately to the tactics. In any case it upset the calculations of the Japanese who counted upon comparatively feeble resistance to their flanking movement. There are indications to show that while the Russians could repulse a determined effort at checking they feared throwing down the gauntlet and fighting a pitched battle.

They had very small reserve supplies at Liao-Yang, trusting to the railway for supplies. The proof of this is that they left practically nothing for the Japanese who captured sufficient to supply their army only for one day after the Russian retirement to the east bank of the river. Their position [illegible] in European warfare.

A remarkable feature of the fighting on the fourth was the evidence that the Japanese proved the superiority of their troops as compared with recent continental formations.

An eyewitness describing the passage of the Taitse river on August [illegible] says:

On either hand our men [illegible] the river under cover of night. At [illegible] the attacking forces [illegible] the banks of the river, pushing the boats into the water and soon [illegible] in their way. Men and horses were [illegible] down by the Russian guns, but the survivors continued to cross and [illegible] the Russian trenches. The men were [illegible] into the water and soon [illegible] in their way. Men and horses were [illegible] down by the Russian guns, but the survivors continued to cross and [illegible] the Russian trenches. [illegible] were [illegible] the Japanese [illegible] the Russian guns do not command the crossing. In the darkness three of the pontoons were [illegible] but the forth succeeded in [illegible] the Russian trenches. [illegible] had to return and seek a better place.

The Japanese having increased did not press the pursuit of the retreating Russians. It is impossible to refrain from remarking on the quick retreat flight of the Russians from the entrenched trenches. I heard a foreign attaché say [illegible] let write men.

A VITAL QUESTION FOR VOTERS.

THERE is every indication that the members of the Western Federation of Miners are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the present election in Colorado. It will determine whether or not this organization is once more through its leaders, Moyer and Haywood, to gain control of the leading industry of this state and pursue its policy of rule or ruin to the bitter end.

The cry among them is "wait until election." If the calamity of an election of men favorable to the practices of Moyer and Haywood should befall this state then we should have a return of the reign of terror and of dynamite. No man's life would be safe who refused to be at the beck and call of these men. No workingman, union or otherwise, would be free to do as he [illegible] would give the industries of this state [illegible]

[illegible] thinking voter pause and consider the outlook of this state with these men as its industrial rulers. Certainly no man with money would care to put [illegible] If no workingmen would be satisfied with a policy or a leadership which operated to shut down the mills and the mines and the factories of Colorado.

It is a crucial time in the history of Colorado. Shall it be said that a chief executive is to be [illegible] because he saw fit to enforce obedience to the laws of the land by the only means which is at his command? Is it his business to allow dynamiting and terrorism in various counties in this state to pass unchallenged when his aid is demanded? That is the question to consider. Shall it be the rule of the law by the legally constituted authorities or the rule of Charles H. Moyer and William D. Haywood?

DAVIS ON THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

EX-SENATOR Henry G. Davis is old enough to have some personal knowledge of the good old times before the war. It is therefore unfortunate that he did not speak from personal experience instead of using percentages of increase when he told the committee which notified him of his nomination for vice president, that the census reports show greater percentage of increase in population, farming, manufacturing and railroad mileage under the Democratic Walker tariff from 1850 to 1860 than in any decade since that time.

And Mr. Davis spoke from personal experience he could have told the committee what wages were paid then, and compared the farms, factories and railroads of that time with those of the present. He would have admitted that the total values of our farm property in 1900 were more than five times what they were in 1850, and the value of our manufactured products more than [illegible] times what it was then, and our wealth more than 15 times what it was.

Percentages count more in the beginning than later on, as the Democratic candidate for vice president can testify, because when he added another dollar to his first [illegible] he had made an increase of 100 per cent., and the Democratic committee would consider that rather [illegible] a hundred a very small percentage of his contribution to the campaign funds now, when he would be rated at millions.

[illegible] made some mistakes in his own way of [illegible] the percentage of increase, for the output of manufactures increased [illegible] per cent. in the decade from 1850 to 1860 and 116 per cent. in the next decade, and [illegible] 73 per cent. in the decade from 1880 to 1890, 69 per cent. in the next decade, and [illegible] in the decade between 1890 and 1899. The total [illegible] per cent. in that decade between [illegible] 1850, and [illegible] per cent. in the next decade [illegible]

[illegible] interesting to have Mr. Davis' personal reminiscences as to the general prosperity under the Walker tariff of that period, regarding which President [illegible] said in his message to Congress in 1861: "With [illegible] ability in all the productions and all the elements of national wealth, our manufactures have sprung into existence, our public works are retarded only by the magnitude of dollars which are expended, and thousands of laborers and artisans are thrown out of employment and driven to want. We have [illegible] and all the elements of national wealth in rich [illegible] and yet, notwithstanding all the advantages of our country in its [illegible] Mr. Davis will [illegible]

YOUNG MEN ARE FOR ROOSEVELT.

Democratic campaign managers are thoroughly disgusted with Vice Presidential candidate Davis, who seems determined to act as the watch dog of his own treasury instead of showing a proper appreciation of the motives that prompted his nomination.

Even the most enthusiastic Democrat hardly dares hope that Judge Parker, in his letter of acceptance, will get on the Democratic platform, with which he is now at marked variance.

Football will be doubly popular this year if it can only force the never-ending war news into the remote background.

Wheat is up but even the Democrats are not looking for a sympathetic rise in the price of silver.

WELFARE OF THE NATION.

"The true welfare of the nation is indissolubly bound up with the welfare of the farmer and the wage-worker—of the man who tills the soil, and of the mechanic, the businessman, the laborer. If we can insure the prosperity of these two classes we need not trouble ourselves about the prosperity of the rest, for that will follow as a matter of course."—Vice President Roosevelt at opening of Pansamerican exposition, May 20, 1901.

Good Short Stories

HENRY G. DAVIS IN BUSINESS.

Walter Coppedge, of West Virginia, tells a number of good stories about the business sagacity of Mr. Davis, the Democratic vice presidential candidate. Here is one:

[illegible] to buy some coal lands without letting the owner know [illegible] so excessively cautious were they. Finally, however, they met and came abruptly to the scratch.

"How much?" asked Davis.

"A cool million, and not a cent less," the other replied.

"Give you $150,000," said Davis, "and not a cent more."

In less than two hours Davis got the property for $400,000, and made a splendid bargain. After everything was settled and the money paid over, Davis said:

"Why did you ask me $1,000,000 for that land?" The seller replied:

"Because I thought you'd be fool enough to give it. Why did you offer me $150,000?"

"Because I thought you'd be fool enough to take it. They laughed, winked, shook hands, and have been close friends ever since."

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

Admiral Dewey nodded towards a small dog with a military carriage.

"That gentleman," he said, "fought valiantly in Cuba against the Spaniards. But it is about his eating not his fighting that I am going to tell you.

"He was quartered in a certain Cuban village, and at mess he complained bitterly every day about the Cuban cooking.

"'Sugar!' he would exclaim; 'they sugar everything. I can't stand constant sugar diet.'

"Finally he said: 'I'll eat anything but boiled eggs hereafter. They can't sugar them.'

"But a young officer came in to mess at the next meal very early, and taking the salt out of the others salt cruet he filled it up with sugar.

"When the elder man arrived he ordered, sure enough, boiled eggs. He opened them with gloomy complacency, and sprinkled over them plenty of the fancied salt.

"At the first mouthful he turned purple.

"Sugared, sugared! he exclaimed, and rushed from the table."—N. Y. Tribune.

NOT GUILTY.

"We propose to show, gentlemen of the jury," said counsel for the defense, "that it is impossible for the defendant to have committed this crime.

"In the first place, we will prove that the defendant was nowhere near the scene of the crime at the time the crime was committed.

"Next we will offer the indisputable testimony of persons who saw defendant on the spot, and who did not see the defendant commit the crime.

"We will show that no poison was found in the body of the deceased.

"Not only that, but we will prove that it was put there by the prosecution in this case.

"We will furthermore show that the deceased committed suicide.

"And last, but not least, we will prove beyond the shadow of a doubt, that the deceased is not dead.

"In view of all which we shall have the first, gentlemen of the jury, we respectfully ask for an acquittal."—Ex.

THE DESERT OF IDAHO

By Expending $2,600,000 on Irrigation, Property Worth $12,000,000 Will Be Created.

One of the most forbidding portions of the North American continent has been the desert of Idaho, in the Snake river region. Little besides sage brush would grow there, and the lands, suitable neither for agricultural nor grazing purposes, have been abandoned for years and become reptiles.

But [illegible] almost miraculous change has taken place in this region. The government engineers thought they saw a promise of fertility there, and the tract was chosen as one of the earliest to be irrigated under the new scheme for which congress has appropriated several million dollars. At an expenditure of $2,600,000, which has been set aside for the construction of a great impounding dam and diversion canals above the Minidoka reptiles, fully $12,000,000 of taxable property will be created in this basin. Taking as a basis the last census agricultural figures for Idaho, the 150,000 acres to be reclaimed under this project will, when settled under irrigation, represent the latter value, while the annual earnings of the land will amount to about $2,000,000. With this area cut up into 1,600 new farms, as is proposed by the government, a rural population will be created of 7,000, which will bring with it an urban population of probably another 7,000, or 14,000 people.

The Snake desert basin when irrigated will afford an ideal example of western stock raising under the humane and profitable method of winter feeding. On many of the great western ranches the cattle are left to care for themselves the year round, enduring, during the cold seasons, great loss of stock and always much brute suffering. Around the Minidoka basin extend vast stretches of land, which will always remain useful solely for grazing purposes. The irrigation of this tract of over 120,000 acres will provide, through its abundant crops of alfalfa, winter feeding for tens of thousands of head of stock. Where now one steer requires 20 or even 40 acres for his support, under irrigation the forage from one acre will more than support and fatten him off for market. Idaho has already attained distinction as a fruit producer, although the climate of Minidoka is a little too great [illegible] so that apples, pears, apricots, grapes and melons reach a high rate of perfection and command fancy prices. Men have become wealthy from the careful cultivation of 20 and 40-acre tracts, and enough can be raised from five acres of this irrigated land, otherwise less in the deep fertility, to support a family in comfort. The irrigated communities of Idaho have become among the most prosperous in the world. The desert lands of Minidoka, producing only sage brush, are now only awaiting water to supply the farmer with a great variety of products.—Chicago Chronicle.

HUNTING THE SEA OTTER

Few Now Left of This Beautiful Fur-Bearing Animal—Its Odd Ways of Eating and Resting.

The demands of fashion and of sport and the innate love of destruction threaten the extermination of the beautiful sea otter. Many years before the settlement of California by the Americans, Russian fur traders had trading and hunting posts along the coasts of upper and lower California for the purpose of securing the pelts of these animals.

The enormous beds of kelp found along the coasts were especially the haunts of this otter, which fed on the sea urchins and shellfish abounding in these sea meadows. In early times otters were plentiful on the coasts of California, Oregon, Queen Charlotte and Vancouver islands and the southern coast of Alaska, and they were especially abundant throughout the Aleutian and Kurile islands.

In the last quarter of a century there has been a great scarcity of these beautiful skins, which have come only from a single point off the coast of Washington and from the islands to the south of Bering sea.

In hunting the otter the natives of these northern islands employ frail skin canoes, called bidarkas, somewhat resembling the kayaks of the Esquimaux. The natives of the Aleutians and the Kuriles are very expert with the spear, which is thrown with a hand board. A number of bidarkas, with two men in each, go in company, and when the game is sighted the canoes form in a half circle behind the otter, and all the hunters who are near enough throw a spear. Then the otter dives, but as the wounds of the animal are slight the light skin canoes of the hunters can easily overtake it.

The otter often doubles and comes up behind the hunters, when the canoes again form and the hunters throw their spears whenever the animal rises to the surface to breathe.

Kept under water so much, the otter becomes exhausted and stays longer and longer on the surface, and the hunters are able to approach nearer, until the victim is struck with a dart, when its doom is sealed.

The babies of the sea otter are peculiar. They seldom go to land, in fact never except during severe storms, when they sometimes take refuge on outlying rocks and reefs in the ocean. Unlike the seal they do not bear their young upon the land, but give birth to them at sea. The pup is taken upon the breast of its mother, who floats lightly upon her back, its favorite position.

When frightened the mother takes the pup in her arms and dives, and even when the adventure is only a few days old she will remain with it below the surface of the ocean minutes without rising for breathing. The otter belongs to the surface several abdomen, takes its favorite position on its back, [illegible] and only the whiskers are lifted one by one.—N. Y. Sun.

YOM KIPPUR; ATONEMENT

JEWS ARE CELEBRATING A FAST DAY, WHICH BEGAN AT SUNDOWN LAST NIGHT AND ENDS TONIGHT.

The orthodox Hebrews of the Pike's Peak region began the observance of Yom Kippur upon the disappearance of the fast day, at sundown last evening. At a late hour last night an adjournment was taken until this morning. The celebration will continue throughout the day and finally come to a close with a special service at sundown this evening.

At sundown last evening nearly all the members of the 25 or more Orthodox Jewish families of the city gathered at Majestic hall to participate in the ceremonies of the day. The observance is in the nature of a prayer and song service.

Rabbi Hayutin, of Denver, has charge of the services. Rabbi Hayutin, of this city, will be associated with Rabbi Silberstein in the celebration today. He will sound the shofar, "Terunga," "Tekinga" and "Shebarim," the signal that the judgment is coming and that they shall gather to worship.

During the observance of the day all of the more strict Jews will follow the teaching and commandments of their faith and partake of no solid nourishment.

SINGS PRAISES OF THE NEW CAMP

W. E. MARBLE WRITES ABOUT HEMATITE DISTRICT NEAR SALIDA. MINES ARE FLOURISHING IN EVERY WAY.

Word has been received in this city from Mr. W. E. Marble, the well-known mining man who left for the new Hematite mining district, near Salida, a few days ago. Mr. Marble is enthusiastic over the region and predicts a great future for it. He will remain in camp for some time yet, as there is much excitement there over new finds which are said to be constantly being reported.

Arriving at Salida, Mr. Marble met a burro train which was then starting for the new camp. In addition to the regular packs the [illegible] of the necessities and some luxuries of life in anticipation of a prolonged stay there. One man was provisioned sufficiently to establish a restaurant and another was planning to open a saloon.

The area of the district has been increased somewhat because of the discovery of new ore in the outlying districts. The camp now covers a tract roughly estimated at about eight miles square.

Ore running from $40 to $50 and even higher is now said to have been encountered in at least six different places and the indications are good for new finds within a few days. Owing to the wide area of the camp the number of prospectors seems to be somewhat small, but it is estimated that fully a thousand men are on the ground. New men are coming into the camp every day.

The Subway Tavern

Written Especially for the Gazette by Rev. Duncan Lamont, of Colorado City.

The recent opening of the Subway Tavern in New York city, or as some New Yorkers who take time to speak so long a name call it "Bishop Potter's Praise-God-From-Whom-All-Blessings-Flow Saloon" because that notable bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church opened the saloon with religious exercises which closed with the [illegible] in the barroom singing the doxology, has caused no little comment in both secular and religious circles of late. Many criticisms have been leveled at the bishop's head for this, to say the least of it, extraordinary experiment in opening a religious saloon in New York city.

Ordinary saloonkeepers, who are not overtroubled with religious affairs, have uttered very unkind things about it and leaders in both our Catholic and Protestant churches have denounced it in unmeasured terms. Saloonkeepers and preachers are strange bedfellows, and when you find them agreeing on any subject, than that subject to say the least of it, is worthy of special consideration.

REV. DUNCAN LAMONT.

Church, Colorado City.

Does It Counteract?

Will the Subway Tavern of New York city, situated on the corner of Bleecker and Mulberry streets, furnish an attractive counter attraction to the common gin palaces, in that vicinity of America's greatest city? If it does, then it certainly will meet with the determined opposition of saloonkeepers, not only in New York city, but all over our fair land, from the Atlantic to the Pacific slope.

Bishop Potter and his associates believe, seemingly that the saloon can be reformed. The great majority of temperance workers on the other hand believe that the only effectual cure for the drink curse lies in the total extinction of the saloon.

Charles Haddon Spurgeon, speaking in regard to saloon reform in the city of London, said not long before his death, that it was about as easy to perfume a dunghill as to reform the saloon.

We believe, however, that the curtailment of the drink traffic should be accepted by temperance workers, because such curtailment will eventually terminate in total prohibition. Public opinion is gradually ripening on this most important matter. The younger generation being taught the evil effects of alcohol on the human system, the school boys and girls of today will be the voters of tomorrow, and then the hour will come for the abolition of the saloon, just as the hour came for the abolition of slavery.

If an article on Bishop Potter's "Subway Tavern," which appeared in the Chicago Baptist Standard of September 3, the writer tells of an experience he had in the bishop's saloon.

"I made the acquaintance of a gentleman who had before him a large glass of good beer, as the other kind is sold there. I asked him what he thought of the place, and he replied with several oaths, 'This thing is a humbug; tell Bishop Potter from a man that knows saloons by experience that this will soon be only a 'bug house.'"

Poor Man vs. Poor Woman.

Some put forward the plea that the poor man ought to have a place where they say the Subway Saloon fills the bill in regard to this particular. What about the poor woman with the poor children struggling in her poverty-stricken home, whilst her lord and master is spending in beer and whisky at Bishop Potter's "religious" saloon, the money which ought to be used in purchasing shoes and clothes for them. Verily there are two sides to this question; the best place we believe for both rich and poor men is the home, and any institution or agency which has the effect of urging fugitive husbands' affections [illegible]

Over the swinging doors, through which one passes into the barroom in Bishop Potter's saloon, is the sign: "Ladies not admitted to Tavern."

The gentler sex are kept in the outer place, where a [illegible] "good soda water and good beer are equally harmless if taken moderately," but into the inner sanction the holy of holies, as it has been called, where whisky brandy and gin are sold, only the Christian sterner sex are admitted.

"Is this sensible, a place that is not fit for women and girls is certainly not a fit place for their husbands and sweethearts. What degrades the one sex degrades the other. Woman was created to be the equal of man, she was taken out of one side, not out of his heel to be trampled upon.

"Bishop Potter's 'Praise-God-From-Whom-All-Blessings-Flow Saloon,' will notwithstanding its religious atmosphere manufacture drunkards and help to fill our penitentiaries just like any ordinary unreligious saloon. The bishop's rolling stock will eventually come to the conclusion and be frank to admit it, that the Subway has been a failure, that its path is strewn with the wrecks of victims, who were lured there under the guise of religion, and who come to their untimely ends just as surely as if they had been frequenters of the lowest gin taverns in New York city.

TRUST AND OBEY FOR THERE'S NO OTHER WAY

Dr. Crayton S. Brooks, New Pastor of the First Christian Church, Preaches the Power of the Gospel in Life and Death.

Rev. Dr. Crayton S. Brooks, the new pastor of the First Christian church of this city, yesterday occupied his new pulpit for the first time. He is here on this trip only temporarily, as he has to return to his charge in Jefferson City, Mo., and will not take full charge here until after the election in Missouri next November, as he feels it his duty to stay and fight out the battle he started against vice and corruption in the politics of that state.

In an announcement of his acceptance of the Colorado Springs call, the Cole County Democrat, of Jefferson, Mo., says: "The good wishes of God-fearing Missourians will attend him in his new field of labor, where his lion heart and eloquent tongue will pray for him the same triumphs that have distinguished his services here."

Evening Sermon.

Mr. Brooks spoke last evening on "The Power of the Gospel," using as his text a part of Acts 17:6: "These have turned the world upside down." He spoke in part as follows:

The world has been figuratively turned upside down by just such men as those who are, in this instance, in trouble with the Jewish and Roman authorities. The work has been wonderful. The power used has been the gospel. Though centuries have passed since Paul and his companion were doing service of turning the world upside down, the gospel has lost none of its power. Indeed, it is accomplishing more today than ever before.

Courage and Hope.

The promises of the gospel furnish courage and hope to the living. Life with its dangers, poverty, pain, disappointment, defeat and death is an empty delusion, a cheat, if not without the assurance of a future and happier existence beyond the grave.

The gospel of Christ, therefore, gives power to the living. What else can [illegible] who said, "I go to prepare a place for you"? [illegible] the power of an endless life. [illegible] Christ." Again he said, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel."

The gospel solves our everyday problems. It not only makes life endurable, but makes it glorious and beautiful, one [illegible]

Gospel in Politics.

Applied to politics, it works wonders. In the business world it reconciles capital and labor and presents the only solution to these vexing difficulties. No wonder Jesus said in his last moments, "Go preach the gospel to the whole creation." He knew its wondrous power. But the words of Jesus are in vain for us unless we accept them. "If ye love me ye will keep my commandments." To personally [illegible] the blessed power of Christ's gospel there will never be an improvement over the advice of an old hymn which says "Trust and obey." Truly, there is no other way.

Only Did His Duty as He Saw It.

"I deem it my duty to add a word of praise for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says J. Wiley Park, the well-known merchant and postmaster at Wiley, Ky. "I have been selling it for three or four years, and it gives complete satisfaction. Several of my customers tell me they would not be without it for anything. AMUSEMENTS

"THE TENDERFOOT."

The interesting announcement is made that "The Tenderfoot," the new operatic comedy, which has been playing for the last four months at the New York theatre, will be seen here on Wednesday evening at the Opera house. This production was the marked triumph of the New York season just past and will be presented here even to the most minute detail precisely as in the metropolis. The cast, with two or three exceptions, will be [illegible] and the engagement in this city should be a highly prosperous one. It is a pity that we see so few really good musical plays. Most of them are found to be sadly lacking in every attribute that goes towards the making of a wholesome musical comedy, and in many instances it is hard to understand whence they gained any reputation. In the case of "The Tenderfoot," those who have seen it are enthusiastic in its praise and claim for it an originality that is marked and impressive. The book is screamingly funny and without the least trace of vulgarity. The score is tuneful and spirited. The cast is composed of excellent artists and nearly identical with the original New York company. It includes the following well-known people: Phil Ryley, George E. Rosalin, Thomas C[illegible], Grace Mc Kay, J. F. Rooney, Mr. Bartlett, M. Baldwin, Mary Malatesta, Mabie Lorena and Mr. Peters.

"The scenery and the costuming are of the highest type of artistic design. The company numbers 8 people, including a chorus remarkable for its large quantity of beautiful girls. Reserved seats are now on sale.

"A GIRL FROM DIXIE."

Never probably in the history of musical comedy has an organization more speedily earned a high tongue than does Sam S. Shubert's company of clever artists, presenting Harry B. Smith's latest success, "A Girl From Dixie," which comes to the Opera house on next Monday evening.

The hand of approval has been more than unusually warm. There never is a doubt but that the modest premises of the management is realized. The production in the aggregate is a sort of musical potpourri. In it are excellent bits of comedy, burlesque and other features. It is said to be by all who have seen it a good entertainment. Briefly told, the plot of "A Girl From Dixie" deals with the fortunes of a young woman born south of the Mason and Dixon line, and revolves around the fortune which belongs to one Nick Calvert, but which through mistake, has been given to Kitty Calvert.

STATE MINING NEWS

RIDGWAY FINDS HERSELF FAMOUS

AFTER YEARS OF DEPRESSION VALUABLE ORE IS DISCOVERED AND ACTIVITY SETS IN AT THIS NEW DISTRICT.

Ridgway is destined to be a mining camp. It has always wanted to be, but heretofore the mines wouldn't produce. There have been great prospects but no pay ore, to speak of. Now, wonderful to relate, it is discovered that there are inexhaustible lines of gold-bearing deposits right at the doors of the valley city, and everybody down there is jubilant over the bright mining outlook. The promoters of the Security Gold Mining company, owners of twenty-seven lode claims and three millsites situated about four miles from Ridgway at the mouth of Cow creek, made the statement that the experiments made at their stamp mill had proved the correct theories to be of value, and that the ore in gold to warrant the erection of a stamp mill which to extract the gold from the tailings after the pulp has been run over the plates. And, what is more to the point, it is stated, upon seemingly reliable authority, that the mill is already ordered. The promoters of the Security company are said to be connected with the Homestake mine of Dakota, and some of them stockholders in Ouray's Camp Bird, and represent ample capital for business upon gas scale they may deem advisable. Wm. Carp, president of the company, was in Ridgway last week, and was accompanied by Dr. M. R. Richard of New York, who has been interested in the enterprise more than a year. The company has located valuable timber lands on Cow creek practically on the site of the proposed stamp mill, and are to order a large engine and boiler with which to cut the lumber to build the stamp mill and other necessary mine buildings. Quite a bit of road has to be constructed and work will commence on same, it is said, within a few days. The progress of events as identified with the Security company will be watched with great interest by its success means much to Ridgway and Gunnison county.—Ouray Herald.

WORK RESUMED ON M'CLELLAND TUNNEL

RAILROAD FIREMAN AND CONDUCTORS OWN AND OPERATE TWELVE CLAIMS—BIG RUN ON TEAMS.

Idaho Springs, Colo., Sept. 17.—Work was again resumed on the tunnel of the McClelland tunnel, after a number of weeks spent in endeavoring to get through a heavy flow of water and quicksand which was encountered to a big soft vein. This was successfully taken up and the shoveling which is now in 2,100 feet will be driven on to cut the great Freemont vein, which will be reached within 100 feet of driving.

Last Saturday night sinking on the main and winze main went down on the 100-foot station for another lift of 100 feet. When the 1,000-foot station is reached the level will be driven east 400 feet, where connections will be made with the upraise from the Newhouse tunnel. The raise from that tunnel was stopped last year at 200 feet, and has yet 215 feet before reaching the eleventh level for connection.

Railroad Operators.

The Firemen and Conductors Mining company, working in North Spring gulch, is composed of railroad firemen and conductors of Denver. They have a group of 12 claims where they own and have patented about [illegible] acres of land. At the north of the tunnel the company has a ten-stamp mill and Hammett table. The mill is running steadily upon ore from the second level cut in the tunnel, the [illegible], upon which a lateral has been driven over 100 feet, and in which a considerable body of ore has been opened for a considerable distance. Work has been suspended in the heart of the crescent and the new [illegible] ore is being opened up and mined. The crevice of over two feet is four inches for smelting ore, and the balance will run through the mill. The mill product is a splendid concentrate with good separation, and a fine value [illegible] on amalgamation on the [illegible].

Battle Mail Addition.

[illegible] has been platted on the creek [illegible] the town site of the Battle Mail. The [illegible] mill will be doubled [illegible] the Battle Mail [illegible] Mining Record.

GOOD INDICATIONS IN INDIANA DRIFT

Treasurer J. T. Spaulding of the Southern Mining, Milling and Development company, arrived here from Nashville, Tenn., and yesterday visited the property of the company with Manager Babcock and Mr. C. H. Dyer.

The Robert E. Lee tunnel, which the company is driving to open the lodes owned by the company at considerable depth, is now in a distance of about [illegible] feet, and a contract for driving another 100 feet will be let as it is the intention to keep the tunnel going ahead continuously. It is expected that the Durango lode will be reached in about 50 feet further, while it will require about 80 feet of driving before the Evening Star lode is cut by the tunnel.

Dominick Pagliasotti and Marcello Camponeda have taken a lease on the Sue Rogers lode of the Silver Flume Mines and Tunnel company's group of claims in the west fall on McClellan mountain and commenced operations this week. They will drive a drift on this lode from the west side of Daisy gulch, which will intersect the Mary Ella lode at considerable depth, from which ore has been taken carrying a high gold value, and it is thought that when the Mary Ella is reached by the drift a good body of ore will be found.

Work on the Gold Bell tunnel of the [illegible] company is progressing [illegible] two. This tunnel, which is started near the base of the mountain, will cut the lodes at great depth.

Electricity for Will.

The work of putting in the wires and poles for the electric power line to the Stevens mill has been completed, but the current could not be turned on because the transformers for this end of the line have not arrived.

The motors and everything at the mill are ready for operation, however, so that it will not take but a day or two after their arrival to put them in place and have the mill running by electric power.—Denver Times.

[illegible] Is the Stockman Group South of Salida, Owned by Two Men of St. Paul, Minn.

Among the many promising properties being developed in Chaffee county, Colorado, one that will probably become a source of profit in the near future is the Stockman group of 10 claims, located two miles south of Salida, in the Cleora district and owned by Otto Teubner and son, A. Taubert, both of St. Paul, Minn.

A fair shipment of oxidized ores is now being prepared. The ores are chiefly copper, [illegible] some values in silver. The average run of the three motels is [illegible] to the ton. If the test shows the ore to be amenable to the leaching process and the 100-ton leaching plant now in course of construction at Sedalia, Colo., proves a success, the owners of the Stockman seem in a fair way to clean up a small fortune, as there is a large quantity of ore at slight depth in the group. In the event that the product cannot be handled at the Sedalia plant, Messrs. Taubert may decide to erect a 50-ton leaching plant of their own.

Messrs. Taubert have owned the property for about four years. In the way of development they have driven about 1,500 tunnels, giving them a vertical depth of about 250 feet.

The same gentlemen own a group of 21 claims adjoining the Maple Leaf property in Gunnison county, recently purchased by the American Exploration company.—Daily Mining Record.

MARKET ACTIVE

JAPANESE SECURITIES ARE ADVANCED ON LONDON MARKET AT CLOSE OF WEEK—AMERICANS WERE ACTIVE.

London, Sept. 18.—Apart from the American market in which business was active, stock exchange operators the past week were engaged in the settlement and showed little disposition to speculate, although prices were fairly well maintained, owing to the continued [illegible] of money. Among the foreign stocks the feature of the week was the firmness in South America, due to the death of the Uruguayan revolutionary leader, General Saraiva, and the depression in Japanese securities owing to the fears of a prolongation of the war in the Far East. Japanese securities, however, were in a better condition at the close of the week.

A larger business was transacted in Americans than for a long time past, on the belief that money will again be abundant both in New York and in London. The signs of a recovery of trade in the United States and the favorable reports that are being published by American and Canadian railroads, especially by the Grand Trunk aided in this improvement.

DANCE IN MINES

Charity Ball Given in a Great Salt Pit in England—An Ice Ball in Cave in Hungary.

Dancing in a salt mine illuminated with thousands of candles, whose sparkling light is reflected from the glittering white and pink and amber rock and makes the place seem a veritable Aladdin's cave.

Such a remarkable ball as this took place at a salt mine in Stoke-upon-Trent, England, one of the chambers of a large salt mine in that neighborhood being utilized for the purpose. The dance was organized in aid of a charity, and naturally was attended by people from all over the kingdom. Such an opportunity, not only of witnessing a dance in the bowels of the earth on a floor of rock but of seeing a salt mine magnificently lit in its illumination, was not one to be missed. It proved itself, and may be more frequently than now in a generation.

Another famous salt mine dance was held at Wieliczka, Austria. One of the [illegible] features was a great salt lake, which was lit up so that all the salt lake of salt [illegible] feet in the [illegible]. On this the [illegible] were danced, some [illegible] being present. The place was illuminated by [illegible] and the [illegible] and it may be [illegible].

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg. One day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (now in Denver, Colo.). He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment. It is the best liniment in the world. FAD FOR ANTIQUE JEWELRY.

Trinkets Worn Years Ago Now Eagerly Sought—An Heirloom Mania Upon Us.

If you have any family heirlooms in the shape of necklaces, pins, earrings, bracelets or what not, bring them out and [illegible] with envy by the many. No matter how grotesque they may appear at first impression, it is the style for many women of high social standing to wear antique jewelry, and where they do not possess any precious relics they are seeking for them in the antique jewelry shops.

You may remember as a child sitting upon your grandmother's lap and toying with that outlandish brooch or marvelling at the size of her jet earrings. The brooch will now serve you as a belt pin, the pendants of the earrings may form part of a necklace. Old shoe buckles are also being worn as belt buckles, and the more tarnished and ancient they look the better. A list of the stones popular half a century or even 30 years ago is interesting. Black crystal was very much sought after. It is to be distinguished from flaws or markings. The freedom from flaws or markings [illegible] the bar opaque.

Then there was cloudy amethyst, a stone with freely marbling, cloudy Spanish topaz, yellow brown, and the Scotch topaz, of various yellows. The Scotch stone, called cairngorm, was the central stone in the brooch that held a plaid to the shoulder. Our grandmothers converted these into breastpins and, strangely enough, those to whom such relics have been handed down are wearing them either at the belt or the back of the collar. Among the green stones were the moss agate, bloodstone or heliotrope, moss agate, emerald matrix and Chinese jade, ranging from very dark to very light [illegible]. Coral was the popular [illegible], but its beauty was exceeded by the real lapis, sometimes set through with specs of gold or silver.

Coral or carbuncles were at one time highly valued. The latter, when cut, or, as jewelers say, faceted, was called a garnet, otherwise it remained a carbuncle. A necklace of carbuncles, properly mounted, is a piece of jewelry fit for a queen. In light red the orange tint carbuncle, translucent, was, if anything, more beautiful than the carbuncle.

There is a charm about the old fashioned jewelry, which the newest designs and most brilliant stones in modern settings cannot approach. The greater portion of the jewelry manufactured today has the imprint of some mechanical process, whereas that of our grandmothers's time bears the impress of individuality of the artificer. Believers in those days were not perfect with the fidelity of machine processes, hence the [illegible] produced. It is fascinating, certainly, [illegible] that it is [illegible]. There is something like the story of [illegible] stained glass, which during its earlier stages was full of bubbles and flaws, but from the time [illegible] in effect, [illegible] fortunate of contact effect of the general [illegible] have done their best to imitate the defects of the ancient product, but with partial and [illegible] results, but there is [illegible] that an imitation [illegible] to be [illegible] of the original.—Detroit News.

THEORIES ABOUT THE SUN

No Immediate Danger That It Will Burn Itself Out—Fuel Theory Not Tenable.

The current theories concerning the sun and the planets are that the sun was once vastly hotter than it is now, and that for a long period it has been slowly but steadily cooling. This doctrine is built on the notion that the sun is a mass of fire in a state of intense and fierce combustion, and that, like other fires, fed with fuel, it must burn out and become extinguished. Some astronomers teach that the sun is supplied with fuel by vast quantities of comets and meteors that are shoveled into it by some process of nature, but other astronomers, like Sir Robert Ball reject the possibility of any such systematic supply of fuel, and they believe that the sun as it burns out shrinks in size at the rate of 220 feet of its diameter in a year. As the mass of the sun is something like 850,000 miles in diameter, it is calculated still to last for a good long time, but there is something extremely melancholy and saddening in the idea that our grand luminary will one day burn out with a spasmodic gleam and a whiff of ill-smelling smoke like the snuff of a candle.

It is with great satisfaction that we are allowed to believe in the possibility that the sun is made of radium, and that it can continue to give all heat and light for an indeterminable period along with nourishing us with food, furnishing us with clothing, either in size or quantity to warm and illuminate us. The idea that it is not losing 220 feet of its diameter yearly is particularly consoling.

There is another sun, also, which would enable our solar system to continue its operations without either suffering an instantaneous conflagration or being consumed by slow combustion, and this is that the sun and the various bodies which [illegible] constitute an electric dynamo and an incandescent lamp on such a scale as could be designed and created by combined experience and omnipotence, to go on the beneficent course forever. Such a sun [illegible] only the [illegible] or later burn itself out to complete [illegible] a flying machine [illegible] contrivance that will enable human beings to fly, their vagaries symbolizing the phenomena of the sun may not be neglected by all except full-fledged idiots.—New Orleans Picayune.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE "QUICK LUNCH."

Who can write the life-tragedies that may be traced in the "lifetime" of [illegible]? Yet it would seem that even a "quick lunch" is becoming too slow for the recently I saw a sign in the window and [illegible] "The Quicker Lunch." "The quickest lunch" will probably soon follow. Indeed, many young business men do not take time even to go to a lunch counter. They have luncheon brought to their offices, where they talk business while they dine.

Has life become so rapid that a man cannot take time to eat? Is it possible that he can allow himself only 10 minutes for luncheon and that, even while eating, he cannot take time to smile, or to turn off the steam, but must keep the throttle valve of his thinking machine wide open—planning, planning, thinking, thinking?

We have become mad in the matter of dollar-chasing. Not long ago I heard a business man say that his partner, who had recently married, "took his wedding trip on an elevator in a New York sky-scraper." It was the only time he felt he could take to celebrate such a serious affair as his marriage.

A man cannot be normal who cannot reach his best while living at such a high rate of speed. We Americans cannot, under existing conditions, attain that exquisite poise of character, that mental hale or, and that harmonious bearing which should distinguish a great people of a highly civilized race.

LONG NAME GIRL SHORT.

The longest name ever placed on the marriage records of Butler county, Ohio, was placed there when a license was issued to James Gill, aged 21, of Fairfield, Ohio, to marry Mesdames Arkansas Napoleon [illegible] Mr. Albiter [illegible] the Mouth of the Ohio Albiter.

The license clerk in the probate court at first refused to place the name on the record, but Henry Albiter, the father of the girl, had accompanied Gill and insisted that the name was all right and should all be used. Thereupon the license was issued and the girl's name, containing 31 letters, went on the record and was placed on the license.

Mr. Albiter explained that while the girl was born in Cincinnati 18 years ago she was named after an aunt whose home was at Napoleon, 40 miles below the mouth of the Ohio river, on the Mississippi. When Squire Warwick, who married the couple, made the return of the marriage he added "junior" to the name of the bride.

SNAKES' SENSES

Co[illegible] Naturalist Says Reptiles are Wholly or Partially Deaf and Near-Sighted.

It is a little known fact—it has, indeed, but recently been discovered by naturalists—that a majority of the venomous reptiles, with which the world is infested are wholly or partially deaf, while their sight is often defective. To this is probably due the immunity of man from the attack of these creatures, for men hear and see the serpents before they are heard or seen and are enabled either to escape from their proximity or to make adequate preparations for defense.

A German naturalist, M. Werner of Vienna, has recently reported the result of observations that he has been making for some time on the senses of infesting vertebrates.

On certain points the conclusions of M. Werner are surprising, and in all they are worthy of notice. M. Werner has observed 156 individuals, of which one-third were at liberty, and he took all precautions possible not to let the creatures know they were watched. One general fact is evident, that reptiles and amphibians are strongly attracted by water. They go straight for it even when they are at a distance so great that they could not divine its presence by any of the senses known to us. It seems reasonable to assume that they have an [illegible] sense of which we have no knowledge [illegible] the direction in which water may be [illegible].

There seems to be some sort of chemical attraction, says M. Werner. But how does this act and on what part of the creature? This remains a mystery.

Reptiles seem to see the light, but in dependently of heat; they are positively heliotropic and only in winter they often leave a comfortable and warm retreat to seek the sunlight. Sight is generally good with them. It is probable the finest sense they possess, but it would still appear to be limited.

The caymans and the crocodiles number distinguish a man at distances of more than six times their length, according to M. Werner. In the water [illegible] seldom go more than about half their own length. This will [illegible] unlikely to anglers, although [illegible] instances [illegible] of sight. The boa, for instance, does not see at more than a quarter or a third of its own length, different species are limited to one-fifth or one-eighth of their length.—Detroit News Tribune.

UNCLAIMED.

Policy Wheel, Found in Abandoned Store Is Still in Sheriff Grimes' Hands.

Nothing further developed yesterday in the case of the policy wheel which was taken in charge by Sheriff Grimes yesterday. No one claimed it during the day and no one offered any evidence as to its owners.

The wheel was found in a vacant store building in the neighborhood of Colorado Crossing, between Manitou and Colorado City. Some of the friends of A. Tomlek, who runs a grocery just at the crossing, were asking him yesterday if it was his cellar that the wheel was found in and he was much annoyed by many questions. It was not Mr. Tomlek's cellar but the cellar of an unoccupied building in which the wheel was found.
